Time to break free?

Feeling a little bit caged in your current position? Are you sick of singing the same tune? Well, isn't it time to spread your wings and fly? A neat marketing company that puts together incentive and loyalty programmes is on the lookout for a clever bird to join their flock. As Fulfillment Coordinator you're responsible for ensuring that the voucher and merchandise rewards are sent to the customers in a timely fashion. There are customer calls to answer, queries and problems to resolve, vouchers to be processed, invoices to be checked and processed and other bits and bobs to be taken care of. All you need is a positive attitude, amazing communication skills and a strong customer focus. You're computer literate, pride yourself in your attention to detail and get a great kick out of solving issues for your customers. A background in customer service and administration would be ideal. It's a fabulous team environment, where birds of a feather, flock together. They all help each other and there's plenty of fun and chatter to be had. Are we are singing your song?
