Looking for stretch?

We are seeking a talented and intelligent HR Advisor for a challenging, fast paced and exciting position with one of New Zealand's largest employers. You'll be delivering a broad range of HR solutions and support to Business Managers at various sites within the Auckland region. Although you will need to demonstrate an array of HR Generalist skills there is a key focus on fostering positive Employment Relations. Your ability to build relationships is second to none and you can present, translate and communicate ideas and information at all levels and across a diverse workforce. Some travel is required (a car is provided) as you will be working from different sites; therefore you must be self managing, highly motivated and have the ability to make considered business decisions quickly. This is a high volume role, in a large business which presents a perfect opportunity to someone who is at their best when there is plenty on the go. This is perfect for a high achieving, resilient advisor with big company experience who really wants to extend themselves.
