It's your lucky day...

Marketing Assistant

Are you waiting for the chance to get your foot in the doorway to your future? With luck you are a graduate just dying to put that theory into practice? If you've ambition to burn and skills to boot then this might be your jackpot!

Wilson Consumer Products is a leading edge, privately owned NZ company implementing the sales, marketing and distributions of world renowned brands into supermarkets, pharmacies and department stores. They are looking for a Marketing Assistant for their Health and Beauty team. Assisting the Brand Managers and the Business Manager in the running of the division, this varied administrative role. You will support the sales and marketing teams while learning hugely about the business and being mentored and developed on your way to your dream career. It's quite frankly the opportunity of the lifetime and only suitable for someone with the smarts, ambition and maturity to grab it with both hands. You must be a competent administrator who rises to challenges, has their feet on the ground and their eyes to the future. Do not leave it to chance...roll the dice today.
